  - a. Perspectives of Wisconsin County Staff Supporting Children with Mental Health Challenges During COVID-19: Professional Demands, Client Issues, and Proposed Supports
  - b. Highlights from The Voices of Wisconsin Students Project: Learning, Coping, and Building Resilience During COVID-19
    - i. Jason Cram notes that Linda Hall has established a multidisciplinary team/workgroup members of CCFAC are involved meeting to discuss what can be done to leverage our own collective resources. The conversation continues.
    - ii. Samantha Feryance noted her takeaway: Money and school based services and the presentation highlighted a need to be creative in how we are meeting the needs of children at school. Need to prevent kids from flowing under the radar.
    - iii. Jill mentioned that one action step is to share the information within our own networks and communities. Communities are still being impacted a great deal and there is uncertainty.
    - iv. John Bauman notes a big concern for the upcoming school year and loss of connections of students. How we support is going to be critical to their success. Unclear about what is being done on the school side or if it is happening.
    - v. Kia LaBracke mentioned that AP is different than CDC recommendations. As such, there is a close attention to pediatrician, school nurses, and other health care professionals to ensure there is a connection to primary care and the two systems are working together. School nurses are under resourced, underfunded, and often ignored. Heavy need for clinical services.

- vi. Chris Shafer notes a need to be nonjudgmental not be punitive. Big concern for high school aged youth that did no work and fell behind. They will need more support and resources to catchup.
- vii. Hugh Davis noted the need for additional emotional support for families and front line workers. Kathryn Koslov recognized consistency within child welfare workers. She noted Dept. of Children and Families is shifting and looking at what pieces support children and youth and how the systems align and strengthen the connections.
- viii. Phil Robinson noted that there is misinformation related to COVID and transition aged youth and they are not sure what to believe. Need to pay attention and recognize how data, resources, and supports are conveyed and delivered. Recognition that the teaming process within wraparound practice allows the opportunity for shared resources and something to consider.
- ix. One concern is that there is a distrust that youth have with adults and connections. Gaps in support to LGBTQA+ more anxious and depressed. This will lead to reluctance to reach out for help when needed for fear or hate experienced by family members/parents. What do we who serve need to know or do to gain trust?
  - 1. Know the terminology and educate yourselves.
  - 2. Know how to interact sensitively
  - 3. More support within school and LGBTQA+ representation
  - 4. Bring in diversity when needed and accept and be open to correction and make space for correction.

6. Break 5 minutes

7. DHS report: Jason Cram

a. 36 Principle crosswalk:

- i. Sally Raschick presented on her work on connecting the principles to statute 36 and well over 70 connections. Shared connections along with highlighted statute to cross reference.
    - 1. Questions/comments: Wisdom and history appreciated. There was reference to Parent and peer support specialist and the value needed in their work and compensation. A definition and description of parent and peer supports was provided to the group.
    - 2. Note to add and create a third column to include Medicaid as a part of the conversation. Where to include Medicaid resources or not and that care should be provided regardless.
  - ii. Jason noted that Priority 1 (b) reflects providing linkages and if any part could not be linked bring to CCFAC and DHS to be reviewed and establish a plan. Sally Raschick noted she was impressed with how well the connections are made and that it was the committees business to discuss how to proceed based on her findings.
  - iii. Hugh Davis notes that 36 doesn't describe principles as they should be followed within. Variability of areas within the rule that apply to adults and not children. For example, consumer directed and disenrollment decisions. Children and youth should not be capable of making that decision and have in some circumstances which is not ok.

- c. Georgetown Report: Jason Cram referenced the strategic initiative and what now is being referenced as Georgetown 2.0 and described the original as the fire that lit much of the work today. He noted that there have been significant accomplishments with the SOC. Next steps can include a Georgetown 2.0 follow up plan, to be named later. Group at SOCAC discussed it best to include an outside consultant to facilitate. 2022 will provide financial resources to have this done. Who and when will be determined later.

- d. 2021 priorities review: Jason noted the group is well on the way to accomplishing the priorities that have rolled over from last year and some the year prior. In August, the SOCAC group will set new priorities that may be influenced by the strategic plan referenced earlier.
    - 1(a) Sally accomplished and made the connections or linkages
    - 1(b) May need further discussion. Possibly a future item? Requires a deeper dive
    - 1(c) Clarification request of group: Phil Robinson thought it may have something to do with Medicaid and billing practices that remain barriers to implementation. Jill Ellinwood referenced a medical model and the example of a physician prescription need. Hugh Davis mentioned the Medicaid interim billing rates of 7 years ago and reconciliation process. Counties believe that there is a ceiling for rates even though there is not.
